Patented Sidewall Construction:

3000 Series Truck Campers

Bigfoot 3000 Series Truck Campers are the top of the line series in the Bigfoot Truck Camper line up, and feature durable construction combined with superior insulation values.

These deluxe truck campers offer the same patented Fibercore Wall System™ as our 3000 Series Motorhomes, which in combination with standard features such as a slide-out dual battery compartment, high output 30,000 BTU furnace and enclosed, insulated and heated holding tanks will allow outdoor enthusiasts greater functionality during the winter months.

All three wide-body floor plans available, feature full size exterior basement storage compartments for storing your skis or fishing rods, facing dinettes and the largest dry bathrooms available in the industry today, while the two available slide-out models will provide you with that extra living space that is often lacking in other truck campers.

2500 Series Truck Campers

Bigfoot 2500 Series Truck Campers are constructed out of two molded gelcoat fiberglass shells that are joined together by only one horizontal, overlapping body seam. The top and bottom sections of the camper are fit together similar to a deck and hull of a boat, thus giving the camper its extremely durable and weatherproof design.

Available in both long and short box configurations, all models are insulated with 1½" high-density polystyrene insulation, and feature an impressive list of standard features such as large exterior basement storage compartments, and enclosed, insulated fresh and wastewater holding tanks, that are heated via ducting from a 30,000 BTU high output furnace.

The interiors of the campers offer an abundant amount of storage space, including cedar-lined closets, as well as solid oak cabinet doors and drawer fronts.

1500 Series Truck Campers

The 2 piece molded Bigfoot 1500 Series Camper, since being introduced in the late '70s, continues to be the lightest and most aerodynamic of the Bigfoot Camper lineup... perhaps that of the entire industry.

Featuring the same two-piece construction as the 2500 Series models, these campers are insulated with a 1" high-density polystyrene insulation material, and are available in both long box and short box models.

All 1500 Series Campers come furnished with the same high quality appliances and interior décors found in other Bigfoot models, and although generously equipped with standard features, there are numerous options available to outfit your camper just the way you want it.

Bigfoot Travel Trailers

Bigfoot Travel Trailers provide a satisfying and independent way to travel while still allowing you to enjoy the comforts and amenities of home. These top of the line travel trailers offer five versatile floor plans to choose from, and include models with double beds, queen beds or twin beds.

Bigfoot Travel Trailers feature the same rugged, well-insulated two-piece molded fiberglass construction also found on our truck campers. Add to that the enclosed, heated and insulated holding tanks (standard on the 21' and 25' models, optional on 17.5' models), as well as optional solar reflective thermal pane windows, and you will be comfortable in any climate.

High quality designer fabrics decorate the interiors, and all models feature large, radius corner windows that create a feeling of spaciousness, and provide you with a unobstructed view of the great outdoors at your favorite camping spot.

The unique two-piece construction and excellent aerodynamics of the Bigfoot Trailers will allow you to tow them with virtually any sport utility vehicle and many of the popular mini-vans available on the market today.
